Abstract - The complex and uncontrollable Covid-19 virus, which has plagued the world's public opinion of Corona, needs to be deciphered as it has plagued all human disciplines and challenged all of its scientific and technological achievements. We are no longer those pre-corona creatures. The window of a new world has opened for us. Cognitive shock and the inability to comprehend this complex virus is more painful for humans than the number of victims and deaths. Psychopathy statistics are far more common than fatalities. Man, who was so proud of himself and proud of his innovations and tools such as ships, ships, planes, spacecraft, nuclear weapons, and skyscrapers, has now become a weak and disabled creature. The work blows his pride and self-confidence, and the backbone of his mind and psyche is shattered. However, it seems that human intellect and knowledge are incapable of tracing the roots, what and why of this five-gram virus, and understanding its existential dimensions is an example of the story of "Elephant in the Dark" in Rumi's Masnavi, But everyone has talked about its ontology out of suspicion. The author of this article, by descriptive analysis, examines and identifies five perspectives; in other words, There are five interpretations of this, each of which is thought-provoking in its own right and can illuminate aspects of this puzzle for us: 1. naive conception 2. scientific conception 3. conspiracy conception 4. realistic conception 5. supernatural conception And religious.

Keywords - Coronavirus, Five conceptions, Greenhouse humans, Paranoia, Extraterrestrials.

I. Introduction

The mysterious coronavirus has divided history before and after its inception. As history has experienced memorable divisions in different eras, such as; Pre-renaissance and post-renaissance, pre-modern and modern, also; Modernism and postmodernism, henceforth classify contemporary human history as pre-corona and post-corona. We have to move beyond pre-Corona attachments and build a new world with new structures and programs. If we look good, Corona's philosophy of existence was created primarily to change us and our abstract, real world. If we drove at the same speed as before, it was unclear what harm we would do to ourselves, nature and the environment.

Considering Corona to be vicious or destructive is a simplification and a computational error. In the final perspective, Covid-19 is a chance and opportunity for rethinking and rebuilding what has befallen humankind. Although the statistics of victims and their economic and social consequences are seemingly dire and irreparable, they promise a better future. It was necessary to apply the human brake to reflect on his record and see where he really stands in the world. What are its opportunities and threats? What is the way, and what is the wrong way? Which option is right, and which option is wrong? What is the truth of freedom, morality, justice, politics and human rights, and how does it work in unusual circumstances?

The arrogant and narcissistic man had previously claimed to be a god, and no one was ahead of him. The pharaonic powers committed all kinds of immorality and injustice in the name of man and human rights, and the intoxicants and the joyful insisted on their false belief that this sky was empty and that the world had no owner. Until the Corona, This divine agent came and brought in the pharaohs and the hypocrites. He restrained his unbridled instincts and scattered dead soil in the streets, markets, malls, airports, sports stadiums, promenades, casinos, brothels, pubs and restaurants.

Who would have thought that a particle of the virus would rotate the five continents of the world? Is it except that the wills of the above wills have sent one of its thousands of agents to warn the rebellious human beings? More surprising is that; This officer has a list with him, and in that list, the details and names of the punished are mentioned.

The human way of life is changing day by day. Distance and quarantine have dramatically changed the face of life. Even if this pandemic subsides or disappears, its sudden and profound psychological and economic effects will weigh on humanity for years to come. Yes, life no longer returns to its previous state. As much as the Corona pandemic has changed the world, we too have to adapt to these changes; otherwise, we will not be able to continue living, and gradual emptiness and suicide will be our inevitable fate.

Thus, Predicting and charting the future and identifying what awaits human societies; is a vital matter. What will be the mechanism of economy, politics, culture and society in the post-corona world? Moreover, that adaptation to the new situation requires the implementation of which formula and behavior? Furthermore, questions like these need convincing and logical answers.

In the present article, an attempt has been made to decipher the riddle of the Corona pandemic to the best of our ability, based on the evaluation of the evidence and the author's intuitive understanding. Also, From a cognitive-behavioral perspective and with a critical approach, the profile of the post-corona world and the future of man has been formulated.

2. The Ontology of a Virus

When the Corona first appeared in Wuhan, China, and the world watched in disbelief from its helpless victims on television, they may never have imagined that the swamp in which China was trapped would soon reach all the people of the world and a single virus could spread so quickly. Ground human societies. How the virus-infected all humans in such a short time is still a mystery. This secrecy is heightened when it does not allow humans to make vaccines. On the other hand, human beings are ashamed and ashamed of how, despite all these scientific, medical and technological advances, they have not been able to control and cure it. In addition, It struck doctors, medical specialists and even some of the most knowledgeable doctors who died (Abdolmalaki, 2020).

2.1. Naive Perception

The public has never been able to understand and take the presence of Covid-19 and why seriously. They are always in doubt and disbelief. As if not. In the words of that famous proverb, They are never in the garden. They make fun of every event. Sometimes they are indifferent, neutral, unemotional, and superficial. Most of these people are from the lower classes of society and live in intellectual, cultural and material poverty. They are in a state of health, economic and social emergency. Some also enjoy high economic, educational, and social status but suffer from arrogance and the illusion of control. They turn a blind eye to world events. Corona is considered a joke and does not follow health advice such as wearing a mask and keeping a distance. According to them, Nothing special has happened, and the course of life is still normal. Although the Corona constantly slaps them with its constant leaps, they may come to their senses; But one of my eyes does not drink water! Anyway, half of the correct perception of reality is genetic, and the other half is the result of proper training and self-improvement.

2.2. Scientific Understanding

Doctors, specialists, medical staff, elites and people for whom life is worthwhile have taken a calculated approach to coronary heart disease. For scientific and historical reasons, medical and health experts do not consider the occurrence of infectious diseases to be a strange thing and believe that in every century, a pandemic such as SARS, Ebola, plague and flu occurs in the world and leaves casualties and is finally controlled by humans and joins history. According to this view, human beings and societies that are in favourable and acceptable conditions regarding health indicators and health and medical facilities will survive, and people with weak immune systems will inevitably succumb to death. Thus, Dogmatic individuals and societies, and scientists who are scientific dogmatists, have a materialist and biological reading of the Quiddam-19 pandemic, arguing that its emergence is due to chemical interactions in nature that will eventually be discovered by medical vaccines and humans will be saved.

2.3. Conspiracy-based Removal

Governments and politicians mostly adopted such an approach. In the early days of the virus, governments accused each other of spreading Covid-19 in a superficial and sometimes premeditated move. This political behavior, to some extent, helped them to cover up their inability to control the virus and to appease the spirit and mind of their communities. Trump called it the "China virus." Donald Trump's son Eric Trump also blamed Democrats for plotting to oust his father from the presidency, saying in a bizarre statement: "The corona will magically disappear after the 2020 election».(www.independentpersian.com, 19 May 2020).

Also, Some Western countries have been accused of inflicting more casualties on the elderly and certain races, their relatives and immigrants, and governments deliberately failing to address their overload. In addition, Conspiracies about the coronavirus outbreak are also being pursued by sections of the community suffering from psychological trauma. Schizotypal people whose superstitious and magical thoughts have invaded their minds and psyches and whose constant experience of delusions and delusions has become an integral part of their personalities and daily lives; Covid-19 is considered a dangerous creature by more dangerous and demonic creatures who have been commissioned to destroy mankind. Another view holds that there is essentially no corona. Rather, governments have injected great psychological warfare and deception into world public opinion to achieve their political and economic goals, and the dead are dying from other diseases. This number of deaths is normal for the population, even before the pandemic. It existed but did not become media with such intensity and importance. For example, In the United States, only seventy thousand people die yearly from drug abuse. If we add the statistics of diseases, accidents and others, the death toll will be significant and even higher than the Corona. Conspiracy theories are not necessarily a disease.

Betrayal and conspiracy have a long history in human history. If we consider the betrayal of Judas and the revelation of the hiding place of Jesus Christ as a fact and not an illusion; And if we consider the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki as actions against human existence; We believe in betrayal and conspiracy, and we better understand the involvement of colonial powers and criminal gangs in the destiny of nations. "It is possible that the new coronavirus has emerged through a highly sensitive research laboratory in Wuhan, which has been working on coronaviruses for many years," Foxnews reported in a special report, citing its sources. Richard Deerelew, the former head of the British Secret Service (MI6), says he believes the Corona epidemic "accidentally" leaked out of a Chinese laboratory (Persian Independent, 06 June 2020). According to the online news agency, Professor Li Rong at the Southwest Petroleum University, PhD and professor of global energy policy who has worked for many years in Iran at PetroChina and project manager Mis, in an analytical report to US biological laboratories in Central Asia and reported that Washington's research focuses on Georgia, which believes that the world's most common viruses have been transmitted through these laboratories. Professor Lee has received this report from Russian sources (online news, 10 April 2020). It should be noted that scientists have not confirmed the above claims.

Evidence supports the existence of laboratories in some powerful countries that have been producing viruses for decades to use as a tool of war in the event of a conflict. Although official international institutions have not yet endorsed this evidence, an intuitive understanding tells us that humans have historically waged every struggle for their own interests and survival and that wars and killings have taken place to quench the thirst for power and the instinct for ambition. Rulers and authoritarian societies subside. The first founder of this issue was Cain, who killed his brother Abel out of jealousy and resentment. From this perspective, The production and spread of the coronavirus as a biological assassination tool is not far-fetched.

2.4. Realistic Perception

For the past two centuries, a line of thought in the West has been theorized by Spencer, Galton, Darwin, Nietzsche, and others as "survival of the fittest," "theory of evolution," "Superman," and "racial reform." This line of thought has also been extended to the East in recent decades. In late 2018, a Chinese scientist named "Jinkui Hee" was accused by bioethics scientists of trying to "reform the human race," in other words, Became "eugenics." With his research on the human genome, he succeeded in giving birth to babies who were resistant to AIDS. A hospital in China supported her called the Women's and Children's Hospital to further her research. The efforts of this Chinese scientist are a handful. Many scientists in different countries of the world are always trying to find a way to give birth to physiological babies.

This orientation is realistic in that the human genome has been modified for years in the context of reality, and many countries follow it in their laboratories through fertility models and stem cells as part of a scientific project. This thinking believes; As technology produces and offers new versions of material possibilities and tools every day; And just as fruits and vegetables are grown in greenhouses uniformly and without waste; In the case of human beings, the same effort must be made, and human societies must be constantly reformed and cleansed of undesirable genes and races because this improvement improves the quality of life and the proper distribution of food and life facilities. In addition, This amendment is also considered a preventive measure because; Weak, incompetent, disabled, and mentally disabled people are eliminated from the life cycle, and human societies are organized in a unified manner.

Such understanding of man and modification of his genome, regardless of whether he is moral or immoral, is an ongoing project. The premise of this project is the breeding and transplanting of fruits, flowers, plants and animals, which has been done properly so far, and now it is the turn of man to have a technological revolution in his gene. This movement eventually ends in what the author calls the production of human greenhouses. A human being who looks healthy, stocky and miniature, but really, It is devoid of zeal, emotions, feelings and high human perfection. Similarly, fruits produced in greenhouses are smooth, uniform, and without losses, but they do not have a natural and hearty taste. With all these attributes, The question here arises whether manipulation in creation necessarily leads to the happiness of human beings and societies. Moreover, is it necessary for superman, the superhuman, and the super-society to be able to guarantee human happiness and identity?

Thus, The origin of this thinking is clear. The two world wars and the slogan of the Third Reich, entitled "Germany Above All", were inspired by this ideology; The wick of the superior race ignited, and millions were dragged to the dust and blood to give birth to the superior man and "superman" considered by Nietzsche and Hitler.

There is some evidence that Covid-19 is structurally needed to act like a chariot of death, racist, and functionally purge people who lack the necessary human capabilities. For this reason, from its inception until now, the elderly, the disabled, the weak and the disabled have reaped more sick people and those with weakened immune systems than others. Even societies with low psychological and social capital, poor performance in solving complex life problems, and fragility in the face of the pressures of everyday life have become more involved with the virus. There is other evidence that black Americans, who have always been victims of racial discrimination and are considered second-class citizens, are more likely to die and receive less medical care. More surprisingly, After the revelation of the above evidence, the pandemic behavior also changed, and now the news being spread from the world's hospitals introduces children and young people as new victims.

2.5. Supernatural and Religious Perception

The theological interpretation of coronavirus is a fact that has been observed in the beliefs and behaviors of many people and societies. Muslim countries have more respect for their religious rites than before; The people of the West embraced Jesus Christ, and the Atheists retreated in shame. The results of a poll show that 65% of Americans with theological beliefs believe God wants to warn them to change their lifestyle with the outbreak of Covid disease. The survey, conducted by the University of Chicago in conjunction with the Associated Press Research Center, shows that 65% of Americans who believe in God believe that the coronavirus is a sign from God to send them the message that they need to change their lives. Give. According to the poll, 82 percent of Americans say they believe in God, 26 percent say the outbreak of Covid-19 has strengthened their faith, and only 1 percent say their faith has weakened since the coronavirus outbreak. Also, The poll shows that black Americans are more likely than other races that the virus is a sign that God wants to change humanity, regardless of education, income, gender or race. "If I do not change, this misery will continue," said Katherine Lufton, a professor of religious studies at Yale University(According to Euronews Persian, 5/15/2020).

Although; People who believe in supernatural matters do not necessarily have a religious orientation, both fit into a common paradigm. Both believe that this virus is outside the human will and that human beings do not interfere in its creation, function and control, and that a superior hand and superhuman will is the source of its origin and only the superior will be able to control it. People who believe in the supernatural and extraterrestrial beings but are not God-fearing and monotheistic, and at the same time believe in the supernatural will of man for the universe; It is believed that creatures live on other planets, about which, although the general public does not know much about them, some scientists have proven their existence and believe that they are far more intelligent and advanced than humans, have always influenced the process of life on earth and in shaping Civilizations have been human helpers and inspirers. This influence and intervention have been proven. According to these people, These extraterrestrial beings have brought the man to this stage of science, technology and development. Man alone and without their support has not played many roles in history. In fact, they are the main creators and creators of innovative and extraordinary works and various dimensions of technology, and man is only the appearance of the problem. The three pyramids of Egypt, the petroglyphs, the excavation of mountains and seas, the construction of ships and ships, the planes and spacecraft, the computer technology and even the great theories all came into being with the support of invisible creatures. Even in the physical construction of such works and buildings, human beings have moved shoulder to shoulder.

According to this view, the coronavirus is caused by extraterrestrial organisms and has spread to, first; To prevent the catastrophes that human beings have caused by their progress in nature, such as greenhouse gases, air pollution, water, seas, oceans, as well as harmful seizures in nature, and secondly; Lead human beings to an advanced stage of life; As has happened many times throughout history.

The theologian's view of pandemic onvid's ontology fundamentally differs from the supernatural. The religious conception is concerned with the divine will. Religious people and believers; Both those who believe in the Abrahamic religions and those who believe in the existence of various gods and goddesses all consider this virus to be a divine mission sent by God to warn the misguided and the claimant and to make him think and pay attention to the system. It creates creation. Human beings, which should be the heirs of the earth and the Ashraf of creatures, emerge from pubs and brothels and sink more and more into the mire of corruption, sin and narcissism. He has become proud of God. Scientific and technological achievements have imposed self-forgetfulness and God-forgetfulness on man. Man needed an alarm clock. Catastrophes such as drugs, suicide, massacre, racism, domination, hegemony and consumerism have brought man closer to animal temperament.

According to the World Health Organization, 450,000 people die yearly from drug abuse. According to the United Nations, 821 million people worldwide suffer from hunger, while some are so engrossed in luxury that they do not know how to spend their wealth. On the other hand, the capitalist system is a system of slavery that stained the blood of the people of society and tightened the siege on the weak and the poor every day.

Astronauts who have travelled to Mars have reported that extraterrestrial beings visit the earth periodically. These creatures, whose nature remains unknown today, have guided human life throughout history and impacted human life. This intervention and effectiveness continue to promote human knowledge and behavior. With the destruction of great civilizations and the emergence of new civilizations throughout the ages, Recent global events are fundamentally beyond human capacity. Astronaut scientists believe that the plan of large and advanced projects, such as; Superships, ships, skyscrapers, and intelligent devices, are projected into the minds of humans by these creatures, and they even help humans build them.

These invisible creatures and astronauts talk about their presence and impact on humans; Their existence is mentioned everywhere in the heavenly books and especially in the Qur'an. The Qur'an depicts a trinity of angels, goblins, and demons, all of which are invisible to human eyes. God believes in existence for all three. One of the characteristics of angels is benevolence and benevolence to human beings. Genies are also present next to human beings and have intellect and will like human beings. However, demons are seductive, troublesome, and man's sworn enemy. A common feature of this trinity is guidance in human life and destiny. This guidance can be towards the light (by angels) or misguidance (by demons).

The effectiveness of the jinn in the story of David and Solomon is well explained in the Qur'an. Moreover, there is talk of unseen help that these two prophets were constantly receiving. In verses 10 to 13 of Surah Saba, God mentions the special blessings and privileges He has bestowed on David and Solomon and tells them about Solomon's conquest of the wind, who walks the path of a month in one morning. In addition, At Solomon's command, demons built temples, statues, statues, and large eating bowls. Also, in Surahs, verses 36 to 38, he talks about the demons of builders and divers. In Surah Al-Ahzab, verse 43, he talks about the descent of angels who help man to come out of ignorance, polytheism and hypocrisy. Also; In Surah Al-Imran, verses 125 to 127, God speaks of 5,000 symbolic angels who helped the Prophet of Islam (PBUH) in the battle of Badr; And he considers victory possible only by the will of God.

Also, God Almighty has repeatedly mentioned in the Holy Quran the destructive role of Satan and his influence on the beliefs and behavior of individuals and society. The scope of Satan's activity is wide and not limited to committing a specific sin. Types of evils such as; It includes lies, hypocrisy, jealousy, suspicion, and the planning and execution of sinister plots against others. According to the Qur'an, jinns are divided into believers and infidels. Infidel (evil) jinns do their job of harming people and corruption on earth, which is done with the cooperation and assistance of evil and demonic human beings. However, the jinn is benevolent with faith (Rahmani). It helps good people to walk steadily on the path of truth and righteousness and become a source of goodness and constructiveness for themselves and those around them. In Surah An-Nas, God speaks of the mysterious devil who tempts the people's hearts. Imam Sajjad in the Sajjadiyya Sahifa refers to the devil's existence in human blood (Fourth Imam, 2012, prayer 25). This means that the devil moves invisibly in the human bloodstream, affecting his performance.

Nevertheless, Based on this view, two views on the emergence of the Covid-19 pandemic can be examined. One view believes that the coronavirus is evil and finds it pernicious that evil humans have spread it among societies and nations, and another view; considers it a divine reminder.

Thus, We need to think more about its origin and why and speak more cautiously. What the general public, as well as some experts, understand about Corona is mainly its negative and deadly dimension. Whether the atheistic materialists, the spiritualists who believe in the supernatural, or the monotheistic and religious people, all have a pessimistic view of it, and they wish and pray that they get rid of the filth of this uninvited and annoying guest as soon as possible. But the fact is that until man solves metaphysical and theological problems for himself and does not give up the slogan of "Death of God", they will burn dry and wet together, and such problems will forever remain in an aura of ambiguity and confusion. One bit of the virus has taken billions of people out of their minds and put them in a state of desperation. Doctors, scientists and politicians have a simplistic view of it. Their knowledge and data are based on probabilities. And so far, they have not been able to provide a plausible and convincing explanation of its nature, why it originated, its behavior, its consequences, and its control.

For thousands of years - especially modern man - due to mental laziness and miserliness, man has not wanted or been able to fly the chicken of his thought beyond the earth and has only sought the key to secrets in the material world. Arrogant and narcissistic man, passing through tradition and modernity and stepping into the postmodern emptiness, saw the sky empty and longed for God. The pandemic challenged this cognitive error and warned him of his inadequacies as a weak being. Now is the time for human beings, with all their scientific and medical powers and possibilities, to surrender to the wills of the supernatural; Get on your knees and ask for music and need.

If we consider the owner of the universe to be merciful, we will undoubtedly see the Covid-19 virus as an opportunity and a blessing. Moreover, if we accept that it is a mission from God, we must necessarily look at it with a benevolent view. He has come to awaken us and to give us the good news of a far greater future. Despite the calamities, Its countless positive achievements will be reflected in the not-too-distant future. Divine guidance ultimately promotes cognition and behavior and nurtures and expands the human soul. In the past and prehistoric times, this guidance was given by prophets and saints, and now in the postmodern world, this guidance is applied in various dimensions and by various elements so that human beings become aware of their thoughts and weaknesses and pave the way to the present.

3. Discussion and Conclusion

Covid 19 pandemic on a winding road; Redirected data. The dangerous turns of this road are so terrifying that any apprehension of destruction destroys man. The door to an ambiguous future is open to all of us—something like walking in the dark with a candle in hand. Countless questions have invaded people's minds.

Including; Where and why did Corona come from? How will the post-corona world be global? How does the interaction of governments and nations take shape? What will democracy, freedom and human rights change? Where in the world will we Iranians stand? What will human economic behavior be like? What is the position of science? What will happen to man's religious beliefs; More religious or atheist? What is the mechanism of adaptation to the new lifestyle? Will man maintain his former relationships, or will he inevitably put a review of his beliefs, behaviors, and relationships on the agenda? How will politics and international relations be implemented? And thousands of other micro-questions.

Now, the masses wander in purgatory, and scientists, philosophers, and intellectuals are confused and in a cognitive crisis. It is not easy to find convincing answers to such important questions. However, speculative and probabilistic answers can also be a source of strength for the current afflicted person.
